

Walter has just been out, viz. "The Soul: neither mortal, nor to keep" which I wish for Scotch use.

Wednesday Ev 5 Feb. 22 K. Green, Blackheath

Dear Brother
When I say that it pleased thee best this morning to deprive me of a devoted sister, wife, mother of several children, you will not expect more than a few words from me.

One who hears the Lord has called him from his gift to preach or teach need not be lonely or unconsol'd. Power makes itself felt; but will to begin in a weak, proving one's gift, too be gradually led into a larger way. But if others, who have heard, invite one to preach in their room, one ought to hear God's voice, foreboding love is had to help; if left was teaching among those older, or not of the kind it was not.

As to studying the Word, it is well when reading papers of interest to ourselves generally. But this do not hinder the regular reading of O.H.T. daily. Both ways are profitable, but in the latter it is not easy to learn how to read Greek & Hebrew well even if one knows no more of the languages; for this helps to better understanding of remarks made by those who do know them. Do not think well of a slight knowledge of Gr. & Heb.; & most men, even if they spend many years, only acquire a slight knowledge if one just learn enough to appreciate God's word; it is far better than spending time for what is not profitable.

The A.V. compared with the Revised Version helps give better results than most are capable of acquiring. So, remember, prayer and the word. (John 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22)

The documents all safely back.

It is true that the sisters trust to their impulses, but I am in judgment, wished to tie down Mr. D. to the plan of Plymouth in 1831, 2. Neither he nor the other party of course. Miss Bryan was one, & Miss Poleson (afterward Mrs. C. M. Adams), both deceased.

Mr. D. never said his children were failures, but I heard that his girls turned out scamp.

F. W. Grant & his G. Rob. were Canadian ex-slaves, now a party to themselves in America, now a help in League with C. Stewart of Reading. W. C. is an active contributor.

The American bit is more in the way of one G. Mr. Richard Saunders, Plympton, near Plymouth. He might get you a copy; if you can use my name to get the book. I have seen it; but I had no quiet time to do so.

Liverpool has now a meeting on true ground, & has acquired a wide circle, which Rotherham, Sheffield & L. get from Mr. E. Meadors, 22 Alexandra R. Selby, Liverpool. The room is 76 Newington, off Bold St.

Yours
W. K.

Mr Kelly's logic is as bad as his theology!!!

Isaac to young D. be ordained by you next the Ch. of England, though had graduated from the University of Dublin, as Mr. D. is 20 years or so before Mr. D. I longed to see you in Oxford, but to find you in Dublin. He visited after, he ceased to be a clergyman. At Newnham in visitation, she had been a Fellow of Balliol, & Miss Wigham, Jarrett, Newton (F. J. Jarrett) & Brenton left the Ch. of England in consequence. Newnham was tutor of Rev. J. Beaumont's son (aft. Chief Justice in Ireland) Brenton (translator of Sept. V. was aft. aft. d. 1820) of Mr. Wigham you may know the personal history. He died in 1760. & was buried on the 6th 1879.

D. Jones died 1 Feb. from buried on the 12th 1882.
Mr. D. Miller died 29 April
Mr. H. Miller died & was buried on the 12th 1883.
Mr. Rowden died 3 July, buried 5th (at H.) 1875.
Her mother, Mrs. G. G. G. having been buried there on 9 Feb. 80.
and Mr. Kelly, Mr. G. G. G. daughter, died 5th & buried Feb. 1884.

I shall then give you more than you asked for in the minute points out of you: as I never was a clergyman.
Mrs. G. G. G. died 7 July
Mrs. G. G. G. died 3 July 1875
Mrs. G. G. G. died 19 July 1879
Mrs. G. G. G. died 1 July 1882
Mrs. G. G. G. died 29 April
Mrs. G. G. G. died 5th May 1883 (220)

I have lately been visiting G. in Wilt & Devon, & was in the vicinity at Plympton, near Plymouth the two of Oct. & Nov. 04 of the first group in Plymouth. I recommended you to ask Mr. R. Saunders for a copy of the book. Of course he can speak for you, but earlier in Dublin. But he was not earlier than Mr. J. H. Rose, who is still alive, but one of the first of you, the Rev. Wigham, the 1831-40. You do not know J. H. D. I should like to see you. F. N. cannot be sure. He was an Evangelist (American type) early in life. Was he converted? Instructions for Song Week conference in the Power of the Holy Spirit, as given at Albany, N. Y., & London. They may be had of Messrs. H. H. D. or in Devon perhaps; it certainly was for all till lately. Mr. D. & Mr. G. G. G. were the head of the family, as in 1830. I was on Hinton, was a Lord in O. B. P. the next Church of 18, & was a member of the next Church of 18, & was in full power. I was a revolutionary time, this Society, it fell on G. G. G. & I was a member of Plymouth. W. H. D. was an ex. Congreg. Minister who came in long after, & was trying to catch G. G. G. who fell into a stupid misapprehension of J. H. D. (as you may have seen in the papers his suffering of Christ), & it became in by a still stronger than his own very slight defects in England.

My first visit to a late man, this felt insignificant as his aim. Mr. D. & Mr. G. G. G. were a clergyman, before he got the second of his father, & was among those who had J. H. D. at his first visit to Newnham, Jarrett, & Newton, Newnham having invited J. H. D. & G. G. G. to translate the Septuagint. Mr. Saltan, also in G. G. G. was a member of the Society. D. Jarrett was Newton's cousin, & was N. D. critic, though a bleeding heart. J. G. Bell was a barrister & clergy. E. W. Wigham was the guard, left for Oxford, but is supposed to be in articles for his office. D. Jarrett of the Sepulchre in North Sea, & is a great deal of a man. So is, being more late than Bell, but he is a man, as a member of the Society was later than Dr. Carnan, his mother-in-law. C. Stewart was a great deal of a man.
